

Clery Act Notification

The Clery Act is a federal regulation that requires colleges and universities in the United States to make available, to students and employees and upon request by prospective employees, statistical information about crime on and around their campuses.

The Clery Act is named after Jeanne Clery, a student at Lehigh University who was murdered in her residence hall room in 1986. Her parents , along with other victims of campus crimes, convinced Congress to pass a law requiring that students be told about crime statistics for the college they wish to attend or are enrolled at.

Elms College Campus Crime Report

This report is written according to guidelines set in the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act, Public Law 101-542. The criminal offenses that must be reported according to this law are murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, and motor vehicle theft. In the Elms College campus crime report, each criminal offense has been further delineated in order to better inform the public.
