Summer Reading Program

Elms College is pleased to announce its 30th annual summer reading program designed to serve children who are having reading difficulties. Staffed by experienced teachers who are finishing licensure requirements as Reading Specialists within the Master of Arts in Teaching program, plus members of the college faculty, the five-week program will operate daily from June 24 through July 26. Children will attend from 9:30 a.m. until noon and work in small groups.

During the program, each child's needs will be carefully assessed so that a program of individualized learning activities can be planned. At the conclusion of the program, a written report will describe the student's strengths and weaknesses and provide recommendations to parents and future teachers.

MCAS Preparation

Third Grade and Above

Once again, an MCAS preparation component is included for students who will be in third grade or above in the Fall of 2019. Reading and writing tasks that mirror those typically found on the MCAS will be worked with for a portion of each week. The goals of these lessons will be to improve silent reading comprehension of both fiction and nonfiction and to improve expository writing skills. Test-taking skills will also be addressed.

Admissions

Enrollment will be limited to students who will be entering grades 1-8 in Fall 2019. Those interested should complete the enclosed application form and return it by June 7. Applications will be reviewed by program staff and applicants will be notified by mail of their acceptance no later than June 21, 2019.

Fees

The tuition for the program is $300. There are a limited number of $100 Scholarships available, leaving a balance due of $200 on or before June 24, 2019.

Schedule

Weekdays, June 24 through July 26, 2019

9:30 a.m. – noon

Admission and all facilities for this program are offered on equal terms without respect to race, color, creed, sex, or national origin.

Location

Dupont Middle School, 650 Front St., Chicopee, MA.

The summer reading program will not be in session on Thursday, July 4, 2019.
