

ELLEN MOORHOUSE

MBA 2020

Communications and Marketing Director,
Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women

As a non-traditional student, I decided to go back to school 10 years after earning my undergraduate degree. In a prior position, I ran a leadership program for many years, but after the company merged, I was no longer qualified for the job I was already doing because

"I loved Elms. I loved the program. I loved the faculty. I loved that I could take classes while I still worked because of their hybrid programs – that was such a bonus for me!"

I did not have a masters degree. When they told me 'You're not qualified anymore,' I said to myself that no one was ever going to say that to me again. As a result, I decided to go back to school and get my Master of Business Administration with a focus on executive leadership.

NICK COCCHI

Hampden County Sheriff

I was out of college for probably 20 years when I decided I wanted to have a master's degree in business administration. I looked into other schools but at Elms, I found all the instructors in the MBA program, all the professors and teachers, were practitioners of what they taught. I took two classes a semester while working full-time at the Sheriff's Department. It took commitment and it took time but it was manageable. For anyone who wants to get into business, I would recommend the Elms College MBA program unequivocally. It is fantastic.
